Create new classwork

- ★ First, make sure your admin has turned on Assignments within your learning management system (LMS)
- 1 Open your LMS and navigate to where you would create a new classwork
- 2 Fill in any important information as usual – for example, classwork name, description, and point value
- 3 Click the box for External Tools and select Assignments
- 4 An Assignments window will pop up and show you all of the classwork customizations you can enable, like originality reports, file attachments, rubrics, due dates, and so on

Turn on originality reports

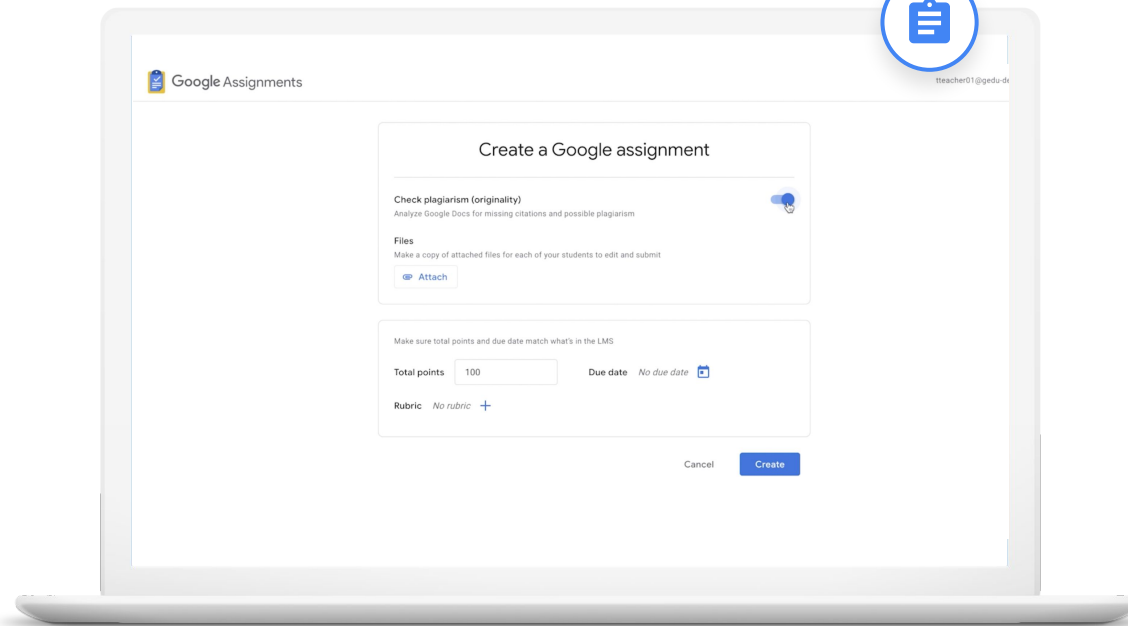

1

Click the toggle next to originality reports to turn it on. Originality reports help educators assess authenticity of student work.

Learn more about originality reports.

Note: Educators can turn on five originality reports per class and students can scan their own work up to three times before submitting, within institutions that have Google Workspace for Education accounts.

Get unlimited access to originality reports with the Teaching and Learning Upgrade or Google Workspace for Education Plus accounts.

Attach a file

- 1 To attach a file to classwork, click the Attach button
- 2 From the Drive window, select the files you want to attach and then click Add
- 3 Students will each get their own copies of any files you attach, which will be organized in each student's specific Drive folder
- ★ Take full advantage of Google Workspace collaboration tools by adding Docs, Slides, Sheets, and even Sites templates for your students

Create a new rubric

- ★ As a timesaver when setting up new classwork, you can import and reuse an existing rubric, or create a new one
- 1 In the Create a Google assignment window, click the + next to Rubric and select Create rubric
- 2 Type in a title and point value for the first criterion
- 3 To add more, click Add a criterion at the bottom of the form
- 4 When you've finished adding criteria to your rubric, click the Save button
- 5 The completed rubric will display alongside student work

Share with your class

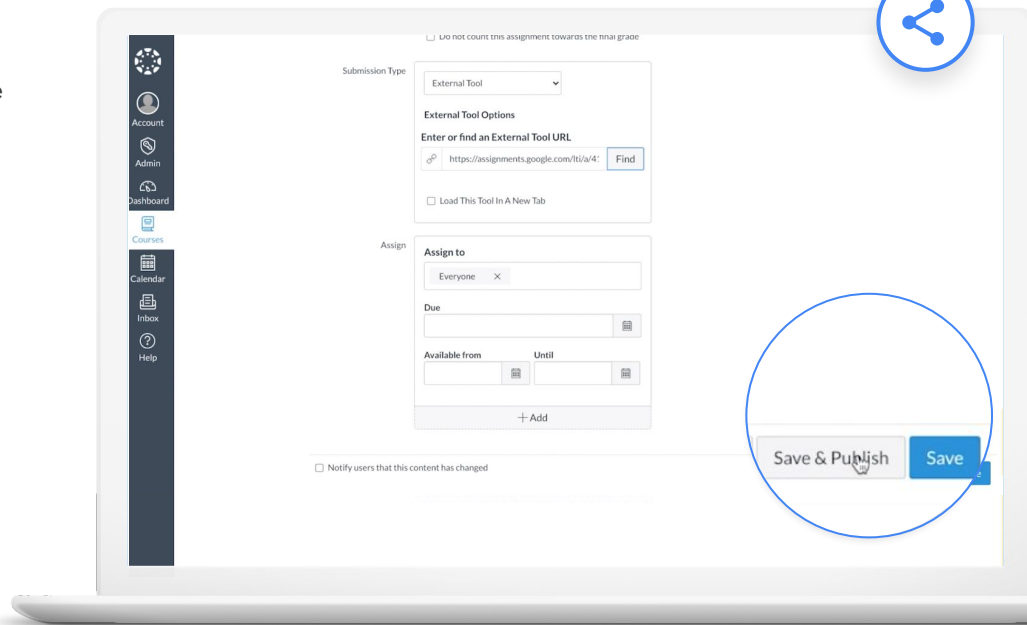

1

When you're finished adding details and ready to share the classwork with your students, click Save & Publish or Save

For any files that are attached to that classwork, Assignments will automatically create personalized versions and distribute them to each student's Drive folder

Note: You can save classwork and come back to it later. Each LMS is different, so confirm with your LMS to enable this functionality.

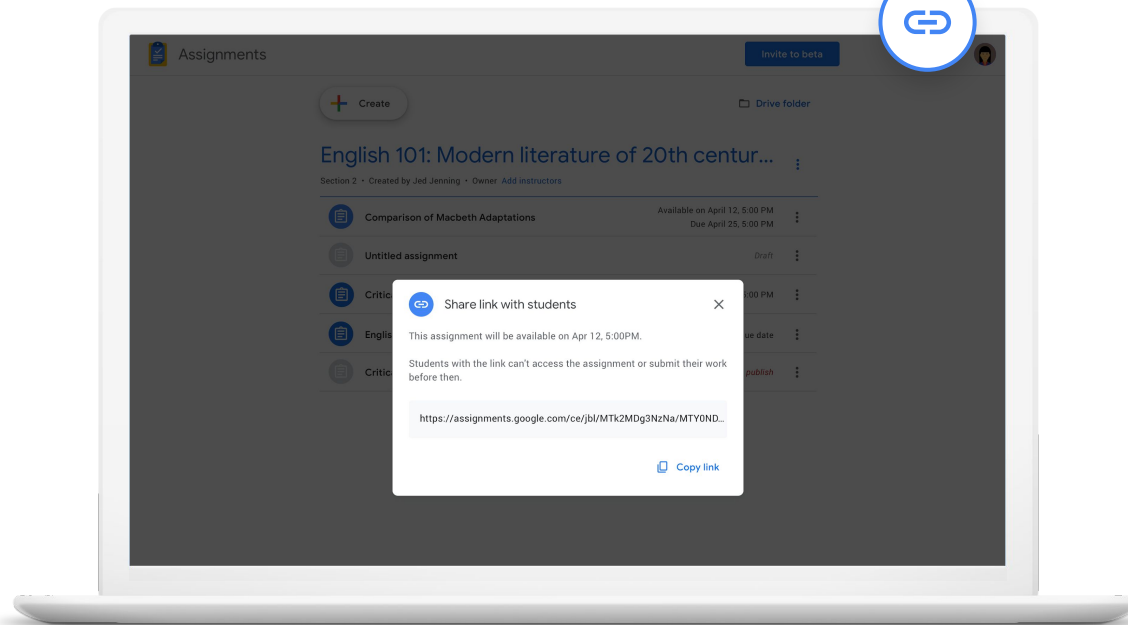

Share classwork via link

1

Use the classwork link to communicate the new assignment on your class website or in an email

2

Students can click the link to view the classwork within your LMS

Turn on originality reports for classwork

- 1 First, make sure originality reports are turned on
- 2 Start by creating a new assignment, or turn on originality reports for an existing assignment by going to the archive of your classes' assigned schoolwork
- 3 In the Assignments window, find Check plagiarism (originality) and click the toggle to the right of it to turn it on
- ★ Congratulations, you've turned on originality reports for that classwork! This will allow students to scan their own work to check for missing citations up to three times before turning it in – available in multiple languages.

Enable students to support their ideas

- 1 Once a student adds their file from Google Docs, Slides, or Microsoft Word to the assignment, they can run a report by clicking Run originality report, and then Run in the pop-up window
- 2 When the report is complete, click View originality report to explore the report
- 3 Students can then edit or add citations as needed by clicking the yellow highlighted text and reviewing the matched passages in the right window
- 4 Once finished, return to the Summary view by clicking the back arrow ←
- 5 Click Submit to turn in the classwork

Run originality reports to ensure authenticity

1

Open a student submission within the right panel – you will be able to see the originality report automatically

2

The number of flagged passages will be listed under the file name

3

Click the X flagged passage notification to see the report

Educators can view the flagged passages as a number or as a percentage. Flagged passages in the document are highlighted in gray.

Originality report
Mark Twain - Economic Policy Essay Assignment

Over the course of the past 50 years, the employment landscape for low- and middle-skill workers has changed dramatically - structurally, socially and economically. However, these changes have often come at the expense of individuals, bringing about unwanted and uncomfortable changes to jobs and workplaces. The new reality for this class of workers is often challenging and unstable, with predictions for future opportunities seeming increasingly grim and pessimistic. Yet, in order to understand the future prospects of low- and middle-skill workers, it is important to understand the changes these occupations have endured, the historical events that have driven this evolution and the current state of affairs.

Individual jobs for low- and middle-skill workers have become increasingly challenging, particularly in contrast to the state of work at the peak of "The Organization Man" era. During the mid-1950s, individuals had greater security in their jobs, linking their personal identity to their employer, largely advancing within a single firm and reaping the benefits of predictable markets and increasing demand for managerial talent.^[1] Yet, the decline of "The Organization Man" era has steadily taken over in the modern economy, shifting from an internal labor market system to a heavier reliance on the external labor market.^[2] This shift from internal to external has led to decreased retention and tenure within firms, greater turnover, decreased investment in training and the necessity for individuals to look outside the firm for new work rather than within.

These changes represent the decline of the Old Deal and the consequential rise of the New Deal. The norms of reciprocity and psychological contracts of the Old Deal are being readily replaced by the unwilling attitudes of employers to invest in their workers brought about by the New Deal. These shifts have created a modern workplace for low- and medium-skill workers that is more uncertain than ever.

In addition to macro-social structural changes, low- and middle-skill jobs have become increasingly precarious over time in both the big-picture and the day-to-day routines of workers. Precarious work is perceived to be uncertain and unpredictable, often manifesting in shorter tenures, long-term unemployment and insecure contingent work. Individuals engaging in precarious work may face adverse health outcomes, are more likely to be involved with domestic conflict and may develop mental health conditions such as depression and substance abuse.^[3] Additionally, low-skill workers' decision-making capabilities may be impaired by precarious work as they find themselves in a scarcity trap, making decisions to mitigate short term discomfort at the expense of greater long term impacts.^[4] The rise of precarious work has also manifested in a pattern of high occupational switching for low-skill workers, resulting in more uncertainty.^[5] Furthermore, minorities, groups that often disproportionately work low-skill jobs, face discriminatory wage rates.^[6] Collectively, the rise in more precarious work, uncomfortable conditions and inadequate wages have contributed to the increasing disbelief in the

Choose between:

- Save as a PDF
- Save to your Google Drive
- Print the report

Note: Educators can also share the report with others by sending via Gmail.

View student-to-student matches

With the Teaching and Learning Upgrade or Education Plus, student-to-student matches are available within your secure, private repository of student work, which is solely owned by your school.

You'll automatically have student-to-student matches available in the report – there's no need to turn anything on.

In the report, you'll not only see web matches but also matches to other students' previous submissions.

Soon, educators will be able to build up the content available to scan by backfilling your school repository with previously submitted student work from past classes.

Student Two - Coffee Essay

Please write a short essay about coffee, including your opinions on it:

Coffee is a brewed drink prepared from roasted coffee beans, the seeds of berries from certain Coffea species. Once ripe, coffee berries are picked while green and unripe, processed, and dried. Dried coffee seeds (referred to as beans) are roasted to varying degrees, depending on the desired flavor. Roasted beans are ground and then brewed with near-boiling water to produce the beverage known as coffee.

Personally, I am a big fan of coffee. It keeps me energized and helps me stay alert throughout the work day.

Provide feedback and save time using your comment bank

Assignments comes with a comment bank for you to store your most commonly used feedback.

- 1 Add comments by selecting copy and then clicking the Add comment button that appears on the right edge of the document. Enter your feedback into the comment box and click Submit.
- 2 You can bring up comments from your comment bank by typing in a keyword, selecting a comment to add, and then clicking Submit.
- 3 You can add to your comment bank by clicking Add to bank in the right column. In the dialog box, type in your new comment, then click Add.

Provide additional feedback using Suggesting mode

- 1 Turn on Suggesting mode in the upper-right corner
- 2 Select the copy you would like to edit and start typing to track your direct edits within your student's work
- 3 Provide further explanation to this edit by adding a comment under the suggested edit comment box and clicking Submit
- ★ All of your feedback is automatically saved, so you won't lose any of your input

Grade with your rubric

If you set up a rubric for your classwork, click the rubric icon to display the criteria in the right column.

- 1 You can assign a point value to each criterion by clicking on the scale below the criterion name. The total points will automatically display in the Total grade box at the top.
- 2 Enter general comments in the Overall feedback section.
- ★ This automatically saves and your student will not see any of the grading or feedback until you return the classwork back to the student.

The screenshot shows a Google Classroom assignment titled "Comparison of Macbeth Adaptations" by Armie Harper. The assignment is due on 7/25/100. The interface includes a rich text editor with the following text:

Essay: Comparison of Macbeth adaptations

Not unlike Shakespeare's Macbeth, the character of Macbeth in Rupert Goold's film is a savage, power-hungry politician. In Goold's film, however, Macbeth finds humor in the tumultuous events leading to his downfall. His chilling laughter upon the announcement of his wife's suicide and his demeaning attitude towards his fellow regents suggest his general lack of guilt and self-affliction. His unquenchable desire for ambition is poignantly displayed through soliloquies, when the camera affixes the focus to the fiery eyes of Macbeth. Through the manipulation of gazes, viewers of Rupert Goold's film are able to experience the thoughts and consciousness of Macbeth. As what critic Ben Brantley describes as "raw susceptibility," Lady Macbeth foreshadows danger through Macbeth's poses.

Rupert Goold successfully offends more fear into the film by implementing staging devices and symbolism. Through the creaking of a raven and haunting background music, Goold subjects his viewers to the same state of agitation and rage felt by the characters. Goold emphasizes symbolism by using physical instruments such as a figurine, suggestive of the former Thane of Coward. Through the figurine, the characters and the viewers, alike, are fixated by the prophecies made by the witches.

The presence of a state of Hell is evident in the film. Unlike the witches' cave in Shakespeare's play, the muses of the film reveal their prophecies in an industrial room, only accessible through a caged elevator. The area, described by critic Nicholas... is an "atmosphere of existential strangeness... a murky limbo." At the end of play, after the beholding of Macbeth, Macbeth and Lady Macbeth are seen descending into the room, presumably entering the gates of Hell. By using the state of Hell, Rupert Goold makes his film more dramatic and frightening.
