Special Issue on Language and Education

Call for Papers

Language and Education is an interdisciplinary academic field exploring the role of language in the learning process across diverse educational contexts. It examines how linguistic practices influence teaching methodologies, learner engagement, and educational outcomes. This field includes the study of first and second language acquisition, bilingual education, language policy, literacy development, and the impact of socio-cultural factors on learning. Research in this area aims to improve educational strategies, support multilingualism, and enhance communication skills among learners of all ages.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Language and Education. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Language teaching methods
