

Special Issue on Depression and Anxiety

Call for Papers

Depression is a state of low mood and aversion to activity that can affect a person's thoughts, behavior, feelings, and sense of well-being. Anxiety is an emotion characterized by an unpleasant state of inner turmoil, often accompanied by nervous behavior, such as pacing back and forth, somatic complaints, and rumination. These two moods affect human health and social behaviors in many aspects.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on depression and anxiety. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Mood, depressive and anxiety disorders
- Mental illness in depression
- Treatment and antidepressants
- Panic disorder and social phobia
- Personality with anxiety and depression
- Symptoms of anxiety and depression
- Cognitive behavioral therapy and psychotherapy
- Cognitive impairments and depression
- Post traumatic stress disorder
- Obsessive compulsive disorder
- Depression perceived stress
- Depression and dementia
- Sleep disorders and anxiety
- Suicide ideation
- Abuse and depression

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Depression and Anxiety” should be chosen during your submission.
