

Special Issue on Depression, Anxiety and Mental Health

Call for Papers

Depression is a state of low mood and aversion to activity that can affect a person's thoughts, behavior, feelings, and sense of well-being. Anxiety is an emotion characterized by an unpleasant state of inner turmoil, often accompanied by nervous behavior, such as pacing back and forth, somatic complaints, and rumination. These two moods affect human health and social behaviors in many aspects.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Depression, Anxiety and Mental Health. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Assessment & psychometrics
