

eattravelrock  1d

2 years. Wow. Simultaneously feels like a week and an eternity. I chose this photo of Bob as not only was it the last photo he shared and one of the last texts he sent me, but it perfectly encapsulates how he would want all of us to remember him. With his guitar, on a stage, doing what he loved to do...making people laugh...making people happy.

I will forever be grateful that I got to share life with this extraordinary person for 6 years. What a blessing. And grateful I can look back on endless memories and photos and videos with smiles, laughter, and yes... still tears. It is such a gift I was able to know his complete and all encompassing love and heart.

I'm still blown away by the fact that Bob hasn't faded from all of your hearts in the slightest. It means so very much. Thank you for allowing me to still share Bob and thank you all for continuing to keep his memory alive.

Once again, please do as Bob would do and hug your loved ones, hold them tight, and tell them over and over again that you love them.