

EUROPEAN COMMISSION
DIRECTORATE-GENERAL
REGIONAL AND URBAN POLICY

CALL FOR EXPRESSION OF INTEREST ON INNOVATIVE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE PARTNERSHIP PRINCIPLE IN COHESION POLICY – PHASE 2

Strengthening citizen participation through collaboration between public authorities and civil society organizations

1. BACKGROUND INFORMATION

- (1) Citizens and civil society are central to ensuring good governance, and they have an important role to play in shaping the European Union and its policies. Looking in particular at cohesion policy, engaging with citizens and relevant civil society organisations (CSOs) in decision-making processes brings added value to the implementation of the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF), Cohesion Fund (CF) and Just Transition Fund (JTF). Managing authorities (MA), intermediate bodies (IB), and beneficiaries of 2021-2027 programmes have a key role to play in this regard as initiators and leaders, but have also a lot to gain from it. Citizen participation can improve the delivery and quality of investments, e.g. by bringing in thematic knowledge and technical know-how as well as greater transparency, accountability, and social inclusion in the implementation process.
- (2) National and regional governments decide on the involvement of relevant stakeholders for programming and management of ERDF, CF and JTF in their territory. The “European Code of Conduct on Partnership”¹ supports Member States to organise such cooperation, as partners should be involved throughout the whole programme cycle, from programming and planning of investments to evaluation of results in monitoring committees.
- (3) On 10 March 2022, DG REGIO launched a call for expression of interest (phase 1) open to public authorities and civil society organizations to test the application of innovative citizen participation approaches for managing and implementing EU funds for cohesion policies. In July 2022, DG REGIO selected seven proposals. Six of them started receiving support by OECD experts.
- (4) The realization of such proposals provides evidence on the implementation of participatory processes, mainly in the context of Policy Objective “Europe closer to citizens” at local level. The ongoing six projects mainly work on the following innovative participatory processes: deliberative processes (in Poland and Romania), co-creation processes (in Slovakia and Romania), youth engagement (in Italy), and multi-stage process to build on deliberative assembly (in Spain).

¹ Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No 240/2014 of 7 January 2014 on the European code of conduct on partnership in the framework of the European Structural and Investment Funds

(5) The call for expression (phase 2) builds on the experience of on-going pilots and aims to extend cooperation between public authorities and civil society organizations at national and regional level and to cover citizens participation in new topics. Additional evidence from public authorities and civil society organisations active at regional level or in the context of the Territorial Just Transition Plans, would be beneficial to increase knowledge and evidence of the impact of participatory processes in the programming and management of ERDF, CF and JTF. Other innovative methodologies will be explored in the context of EU cohesion policy, for example: open innovation, participatory budgeting, civic monitoring, use of emerging technologies for participation, etc.

2. OBJECTIVE OF THE CALL

(7) Under this Call, the Directorate General for Regional and Urban Policy of the European Commission (hereinafter DG REGIO) aims to cooperate with up to 10 public authorities responsible for managing or implementing ERDF, CF or JTF either as managing authorities, intermediate bodies or beneficiaries (hereafter public authorities) and 10 CSOs, to engage citizens in cohesion policy (see heading 4 on eligible applicants).

(8) Through this cooperation, DG REGIO seeks to:

- a) Test and assess the application of innovative citizen participation approaches for managing, implementing and monitoring EU funds under cohesion policy.
- b) Identify conditions, actions and resources necessary to build strong and long-lasting partnerships to promote citizen participation in cohesion policy.
- c) Collect good practices of citizen participation in cohesion policy to be shared among and beyond project partners.
- d) Promote peer learning and support community of practitioners.

(9) To achieve this objective, DG REGIO will cooperate with and use the expertise of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) for implementing the pilot. The OECD experts will:

- a) Accompany public authorities and CSOs in establishing the right methodology for participation.

- b) Support public authorities and CSOs in building an enabling environment for collaboration and partnership.
 - c) Advise both public authorities and CSOs in the implementation of participatory processes.
- (10) Work will be carried out in the framework of a pilot action. Public authorities and civil society organisations will receive support for their joint proposal to implement in an innovative way the partnership principle in the context of design, implementation and/or monitoring at the level of programme, strategy and/or investment under 2021-2027 programmes.
- (11) The innovative character of project proposals will be assessed taking into account existing best practices on innovative citizen participation, including deliberative processes (see for example the OECD publications “Innovative Citizen Participation and New Democratic Institutions” and “OECD Guidelines for Citizen Participation Processes”), and the specific context and challenges in order to determine the potential lessons that can be learned.
- (12) The proposals selected will complement the applications selected in phase 1, by widening the participatory methodologies applied, and by broadening the typology of actors to also cover actors at regional level.
- (13) Provided that the minimum requirements to be shortlisted are fulfilled, at least one eligible proposal which aims at applying a participatory process at regional level and at least one eligible proposal which aims at applying a participatory process in the context of a Territorial Just Transition Plan will be selected.
- (14) The experiences from the pilot projects will contribute to improving operational knowledge to be disseminated through publications, capacity building activities, and through a REGIO Peer2Peer+ community.
- (15) The pilot will require active participation of the selected public authorities and civil society organisations. They will need to delegate employees to participate in interviews/discussions/meetings/workshops and to contribute to/review documents in English. They are expected to commit to make necessary resources (financial and human) available to participate in this pilot.

- (16) This Call will not result in the award of funding to the public authorities and civil society organisations expressing their interest in participation in this pilot. The costs associated with the participation in this pilot may be covered through technical assistance funding of the concerned operational programme.
- (17) Applicants are expected, or at least encouraged, to have previously validated the proposal with the political level in charge of the implementation of the concerned operational programme. Political commitment is essential for the implementation of participatory processes and to ensure impact in the decision making.
- (18) Assistance will be provided by the OECD to public authorities and civil society organisation in two phases:
- step I (review of project proposals/training/assistance to plan and set-up activities): July 2023 – December 2024
- step II (assistance to complete activities and feed-back to beneficiaries): January 2024 – October 2024
- (19) The pilot is expected to be completed in December 2024 with the publication of the final report and public presentation of results.

3. EXPECTED OUTCOMES

- (20) The Action provides a basis for the dissemination of good practices across EU Member States on citizen participation. It encourages public authorities to collaborate with citizens and CSOs throughout the cohesion policy cycle, which can be replicated in other policy areas and by other authorities in the same Member State. In general terms, this action aims at raising awareness and building skills at the EU level on citizen participation, CSO collaboration, and open government.

4. WHO CAN APPLY UNDER THIS CALL

- (21) The Call for expression of interest targets public authorities responsible for managing or implementing the ERDF, CF or JTF either as managing authorities, intermediate bodies or beneficiaries (hereafter public authorities) jointly with
