2020–2021 in Review:

A Time for Transformation

Michelle T. Boone
Poetry Foundation President

Michelle T. Boone, Poetry Foundation President

“Not everything that is faced can be changed, but nothing can be changed until it is faced.”
—James Baldwin

If ever there was a word to describe the past two years at the Poetry Foundation, it would be “change.” Like so many organizations, the Foundation has had to pivot, adjust and reassess its role, purpose and positioning as we all enter into the “new” normalcy in the aftermath of the global pandemic of the past two years. This change wasn’t just needed, it was necessary.

In the summer of 2020, the Poetry Foundation shared a public declaration of our Commitment to Our Community, citing ways in which we would work to transform into an organization that better reflects, respects, and represents the poetry ecosystem. Since that Commitment, we have worked continuously to become more diverse, equitable, and inclusive in our programming, services, staffing, board members, and engagement with communities of poets and artists who are central to our work, as we examined what it means to be a partner and trusted member of our community. We engaged, we listened, and we recognized the significant responsibility we have, the role we play and the space we occupy within the literary landscape as we pursued our mission to celebrate, share and support poetry widely.

As we approach the end of my first year as the president of the Poetry Foundation, I am mindful that while we are moving ever forward, it is vital to take a moment to reflect back on the lessons of the past two years of change. Although our journey of renewal is just beginning, we share with you our progress during 2020–2021 anchored in adopting the values of equity, generosity, inclusion, justice, transparency, and trust.

We’ve learned a lot and with your continued feedback and guidance in the future, we aim to keep learning and thank you for your partnership and support.

Yours in poetry,
Michelle T. Boone
Poetry Foundation President

Key Updates

Key Updates

In partnership with Lord Cultural Resources, started the process for a new Strategic Plan, the first one since 2006 at the Foundation.

Increased diversity in leadership with new staff promotions and hires, including Michelle T. Boone as president in May 2021 and several additions of new board members of color.

Launched a nationwide search for a new editor of Poetry magazine.

Collaborated with Ethos, a Chicago-based Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging (DEIB) firm, who conducted an equity audit in parallel with the Foundation’s work to fulfill commitments first named in the Open Letter of Commitment to Our Community. Findings included:

- Since 2003, of nearly 4,000 Poetry contributors, one-fourth were people of color.
- In that same period of time, more than 53% of contributors were men.
- Diversity has been incrementally increasing across social identity categories over time, with 2018 representing the biggest increases.
- These findings do not represent where the Foundation or magazine wants to be or can be; rather, they give a starting point from which growth can be marked.

Awarded $2 million in emergency grants, and began the process of reimagining the Foundation’s future grantmaking.

Increased transparency with consistent updates on the changes at the Foundation in relation to the goals and priorities stated in the Commitment.

Global Pandemic

Like many organizations across the country, the COVID-19 pandemic compelled the Poetry Foundation to pivot to a new approach. On March 13, 2020, the Foundation closed its doors to the public to support the City of Chicago’s efforts to contain the spread of the COVID-19 virus and practice social distancing as advised by the Centers for Disease Control and the Chicago Department of Public Health. All in-person, on-site public programming was canceled or postponed.

Marilyn Nelson and an ASL interpreter, Young People’s Poetry Day, September 2021

Kristian Bachrach, pianist Daniel Baer, and an ASL interpreter, LYNX Project Amplify Series, September 2021

In response to the pandemic, the Poetry Foundation changes in its approach and presentation of public events. These included a pivot to entirely digital/online offerings in 2020–2021 and the Poetry Off the Stage series on Instagram. The Programming team added the presence of live captioners and/or American Sign Language (ASL) interpreters to all events; events were also recorded and added to the Poetry Foundation website to be accessed anytime.

Carson Ellis, Reading for Young People, October 2020

The Programming team introduced post-event surveys so that attendees could provide feedback on the events and highlight areas for improvement. This practice is ongoing, and the feedback is greatly appreciated.

A few examples:

“I loved the descriptions of the speakers and their surroundings. It was a very welcoming atmosphere.”

“The presentation of identities, visual descriptions, and simultaneous ASL interpretation made me feel like this is a space that carefully considers everyone.”

“Each poet had lineage in each other, other poets, and the unshared now shared experiences. Wonderful curation. Great flow. Beautiful souls, each one and all.”

“This was my first time attending a Poetry Foundation event, and I’m glad I did.”

Library

Library

Poetry Foundation Library

The Poetry Foundation Library is the Midwest's only library dedicated to poetry. While the Foundation building was closed due to COVID-19, virtual visitors to the library could attend a range of online workshops and events.

2020–2021 Book Clubs

Each month, Library staff moderated an online book club featuring a wide range of classic and contemporary poets. Moving to a virtual format allowed guests to join the conversations from anywhere in the world. Participants in the United States received copies of the discussion book free of charge.

- 24 book clubs
- 377 attendees
- 21 of 24 books discussed were by BIPOC poets
- 19 of 24 books discussed were by living poets

2020–2021 Writing Workshops

The Library's long-standing writing workshop series, Forms & Features, also adapted to an online format in 2020. Through these workshops, participants came together to learn about different poetic forms and aspects of poetry, and to create their own work. From these sessions, a new reading series, Celebrating the Poets of Forms & Features, was born, providing participants a space to share work from those workshops.

- 238 sessions
- 4,184 attendees

2020–2021 Youth Programming

In addition to the book clubs and workshops geared towards adult fans of poetry, the Library offers a number of programs for young writers and readers of the art form.

Field trips were changed to online sessions available to educators who wanted to bring more poetry to their classrooms, resulting in the following:

- 31 sessions
- 677 attendees

The Teen Poetry Labs, traditionally in-person summer workshops, shifted to online sessions that were available to more young poets in the virtual space, leading to:

- 29 sessions
- 239 attendees

Poetry Explorers is a new program that began as a virtual event series. It has evolved into an interactive video series that caregivers and educators can enjoy with their young poets again and again.

- 8 event sessions
- 4 video installments

Gallery

While the Poetry Foundation building was closed in 2020–2021, its commitment to poetry as art form did not stop. For the first time, the Foundation installed an artwork on its Chicago building's exterior: For And Nor But Or Yet So by Bob Faust.

This installation debuted November 2021 and celebrated the poems of 2021 Ruth Lilly Award winner Patricia Smith.

Smith, who was raised on the West Side of Chicago, is the winner of numerous awards, including the Kingsley Tufts Poetry Award and Lenore Marshall Poetry Prize. She is a mentor and inspiration to a generation of poets and a treasure for innumerable readers.

The poems gathered for the installation were available as QR codes that collectively created a "family tree" of work selected by Smith, tracing generative connections between poets past and present.

Incubator for Community-Engaged Poets

The Incubator is a program for poets who engage with and serve communities through their creative practice. Prior to the pandemic, the Incubator consisted of a four-day introductory session of workshops and discussions that culminated with the Chicago Poetry Block Party. Then, work continued in Incubator Fellows' communities, supported in part by grants awarded annually to two Fellows for their community projects.

The Foundation went through several permutations of Incubator, working to adapt it to function during the pandemic and in a way that was aligned with the changes underway at the Foundation. This evolved into an evaluation of the program. Feedback was requested and received from 77 out of 98 Incubator alumni.

Hope Rhymes

The Foundation joined Poetry Ireland in 2021 to announce the new multi-year partnership, Hope Rhymes. This partnership aims to connect communities of poets and audiences in the United States and Ireland, with a focus on engagement with and services for young people.

Summer Poetry Teachers Institute

In July 2021, we carried forth our Commitment to the Community with the free virtual institute "Poetry in an Antiracist Classroom," which reached more than 200 educators, ranging from kindergarten to the community college level. They learned new ways to teach poetry to their students. It was the sixth annual Institute expanded to a broad, virtual educator audience. The Poetry Foundation worked with longtime partner O, Miami, the annual poetry festival, to plan the Institute programming.

Media partnerships provide a unique opportunity for the Poetry Foundation to invest in poetry programming that reaches new and familiar audiences across a broad media spectrum. This resulted in a more robust presence for poetry-related stories in video, print, radio, television, and social media.

In 2021, the Poetry Foundation relaunched the long-standing, free weekly column American Life in Poetry with award-winning poet and author Kwame Dawes as the new editor. Dawes’s tenure is paired with an engaging new website, designed to connect people to poetry through interests, geography, and representation. Ted Kooser retired as the series editor after celebrating more than 800 columns. The column continues to be published in partnership with the English Department of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Collaborating with Complexly, the Foundation welcomed new co-curators of the twice-weekly YouTube series Ours Poetica which featured Charlotte Abotsi and Sarah Kay in 2021 for Season 3. The poetic duo invited guests to share poems with audiences in short readings that evoke the tactile joy of holding a book while experiencing a poem. Ours Poetica returned to screens of all sizes every Monday and Friday in September.

The Slowdown logo

In partnership with American Public Media, 2021 also marked the return of celebrated poetry podcast, The Slowdown, with award-winning poet Ada Limón taking helm as host, delivering a short episode each weekday of a poem and a moment of reflection. This offered listeners a different way to see the world – through poetry.

On a local level, the Poetry Foundation began a partnership with the Chicago Reader in 2020. Poetry Corner is a biweekly space in the Reader’s print and digital editions that works with Chicago poets to curate a feature of new poems by local writers. This partnership both supports independent writers and publications and provides Chicagoans with a new space to encounter art by people from their community.

The Poetry Foundation is also proud to share the title of 2021 Best Poetry Organization with Kuumba Lynx in the Reader Best of Chicago issue, voted on by the publication’s readers.

Partnerships, grants, prizes, awards, and programs are a few of the ways we continue to celebrate and support past, present, and future poets from all walks of life. The awards processes were revisited in 2020–2021, expanding the pool of decision makers, and they continue to evolve with the Poetry Foundation.

For the first time, the Pegasus Awards ceremonies were virtual, meaning that winners and their supporters could celebrate safely from wherever they were. In 2021, the event was open to the general public to log on and cheer these incredible poets, and the video was added to the Foundation website to be enjoyed by all for years to come.

The Poetry Foundation extended the tenure of current Young People’s Poet Laureate, Naomi Shihab Nye, to 2022. Nye was awarded the honor and two-year term in 2019, but had to cancel a number of her readings and programs due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The extension of her tenure allows for new initiatives to replace those that were canceled. It also allows Nye to maintain her commitment to celebrating poetry in geographically underserved and rural communities.

Grants

Grants

Artwork by Sirin Thada

The Poetry Foundation is a private operating foundation, meaning it is a non-profit organization that devotes most of its resources to programs that serve the public; grantmaking, by regulation, is not one of those programs, and so is only one facet of the Foundation's work as a charitable organization. That said, the Foundation recognizes the importance of grants funding in the arts, and has been reimagining how it can serve the poetry ecosystem in sustainable ways.

The Poetry Foundation opened an emergency grant program to support poetry and affiliated arts organizations struggling during the COVID-19 pandemic. The Foundation committed $1 million in emergency grants over two years at that time; it has doubled that to $2 million in emergency funds distributed within one year.

The emergency grants were open to poetry organizations and organizations that use poetry as an expression of their missions, located in the United States. This included organizations fighting for social justice and working to advance racial equity in poetry and affiliated art.

One-time emergency grants were awarded in the range of $5,000–$20,000, determined by organizations' annual budgets and requested funds. A panel of internal staff reviewed and chose applicants.

Grants Awarded

A total of 128 organizations received emergency grant funding from the Poetry Foundation from the emergency grant opportunity. Of the recipients:

- 74 of the organizations provide programs for BIPOC, LGBTQIA, and/or other marginalized groups
- 48 of the organizations focus on youth programming
- 88 of the organizations support their local communities
- 113, or 88%, of the organizations had not previously received funding from the Poetry Foundation.
