

PLANT SPECIES

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS TO THE HANDBOOK OF TEXAS ONLINE

The following guidelines are intended to apply to articles about nonagricultural Texas plants for the Handbook of Texas.

The Handbook is meant to serve as the principal reference work for all significant aspects of Texas studies and is encyclopedic in scope. All entries should be concise, factual, informative, authoritative, and fully documented.

1. Common name(s)
2. Scientific name (underlined and in parentheses)
3. Physical description (height, shape, color(s), flowers, seeds, etc.)
4. Range: Was plant introduced or native? How has range of species change, and what are the circumstances responsible for this change?
5. Economic impact; positive or negative
6. Folk usage and lore associated with species
7. Ecological status and prospects; conservation efforts for endangered species

Each entry in the Handbook appears over the author's name. We believe that every article will be considered a standard source of information for decades. Because we know that our contributors share our desire to adhere to the most rigorous standards, we have adopted the policy of checking all factual material to be printed in the new edition. This means that we need specific footnotes, with complete publication information, for all of the facts in an article. We regret the inconvenience which this causes, but only by this double check can we be assured that each entry will be the credit to its author that we wish it to be. Furthermore, the extra effort will ultimately save our small staff hundreds of hours and will earn the heartfelt gratitude of our research assistants.

A brief bibliography should be included with each article. We encourage contributors to list primary as well as secondary sources. The list of works should be highly selective; if possible, it should include recent publications as well as the location of major archival collections.

Please send 2 DOUBLE-SPACED copies of each manuscript. We would prefer to have the entries submitted by email to brett.derbes@tshaonline.org or by mail to the address below on a CD or flash drive in one of the following formats: Word 97 or later (.doc) or for MAC users, Rich Text Format (.rtf).

All articles become the copyrighted property of the Texas State Historical Association when they are received. They will be edited. The association retains the right of disposition of all manuscripts.
